

Northern Bridgers

Date

Fri, 11/08/2024 - 12:05

Activity

Skiing

Early season conditions. At 8000' just below the Sacajawea trail bowl, there is about 9" of snow. In the trail bowl, winds moved that snow around and there is nice firm, supportable (ie - not hitting rocks) snow.

Warm weather really settled the snow and it became damp today on many sun exposed slopes. It stayed dry and cold on high north.

Overall, the things seem quite stable, even though there may be a wind slab or two that could still avalanche.

Region

Bridger Range

Location (from list)

Sacajewea Peak

Observer Name

GNFAC