

This smaller natural avalanche illustrates poor bonding in upper layers of the snowpack containing recent snow. While larger avalanches are more spectacular, these smaller ones are more common and can be equally as serious. Watch for them anytime immediately following a storm. Photo: GNFAC

Advisory Region
Lionhead Range
Longitude
-111.34W

Latitude
44.74N

Forecast link: GNFAC Avalanche Advisory for Sat Apr 2, 2011
Lionhead Range, 2011-04-01