

This pit was dug on a north facing slope at Lionhead. The ECT failed on 29 taps on large depth hoar crystals less than a foot off the ground. Although it would be difficult to trigger when it is this far under the surface, in areas where the snowpack is thinner a snowmobiler could initiate a fracture that would propagate to deeper slopes like this one. Photo: GNFAC

Advisory Region
Lionhead Range

Forecast link: GNFAC Avalanche Advisory for Fri Mar 16, 2012
Lionhead Range, 2012-03-15